LONDON, March 20.

THE Duke of Clarence packet from New York, which arrived in 24 days, brings an account that Mr. Jefferson is elected President of the United States of America.

It is with extreme concern we relate, that his Majesty's ship Invincible, of 74 guns, which failed from Yarmouth Roads on the 16th inst. struck on a part of Happisburgh Sands shortly after sailing, where she remained fast, notwithstanding every exertion made by cutting away her masts, &c. till early on the 17th, when the beat off the sand, and soon afterwards sunk in deep water.

Although the customary signals of distress were made, and the cutter hove in sight in the course of Monday afternoon, it was observed by the officers and crew of the Invincible with mixed sensations of pain and indignation that this vessel made no attempt to approach the ship, but on the contrary continued to windward. It was, we understand, to the gallant conduct of the Master of a fishing smack that Admiral Totty and several of the officers were indebted for their safety. The smack came boldly alongside, and exposed itself to imminent danger in taking on board the Admiral, with the Purser and several Midshipmen. The Lively Excise cutter, Capt. Gunthorpe, was also highly instrumental in preserving the lives of several officers and a considerable number of the men.

Out of the Invincible's complement of men, which, with some officers who were passengers by orders of the Admiralty, for the purpose of joining their respective ships in Sir H. Parker's fleet, consisted of nearly 600 men, not quite 200 have been saved. We have the pleasure to state, that Captain Reynolds is among those who escaped, but of the rest of the commissioned officers the first and second Lieutenants only have been preserved. All the marines and Royal officers, and men, with the exception of 5 private marines, are lost.

The Invincible had on board, exclusively of her own guns and stores, a large quantity of heavy ordnance, with shot and ammunition, &c. for the use of the gun boats and floating batteries which might have been necessary in the Baltic.

The Invincible was one of the oldest ships in the Navy. She was built in 1766, and had not returned many months from the West Indies, where she had been stationed under the command of Capt. Caley, since 1795.

Letters from Baltimore state, that Guadaloupe had been declared in a state of siege by the English.

There was a rumour yesterday that four ships of the line and eight frigates had got out of Brest water unperceived, and had failed, supposed to the East Indies. This account is not very probable. Admiral Cornwallis, with 14 sail of three-deckers, and one 80 gun ship, is off Brest. The in-shore squadron, under Sir J. Saumarez, consisting of eight sail of 74's, besides frigates, cutters, &c. were within seven or eight miles of the port of Brest on the 12th instant, and were destined to keep a good look-out, as the Brest fleet were evidently preparing for sea. Under these circumstances, it cannot be supposed that any ships could put to sea unnoticed.

It was yesterday reported, that the expedition to Egypt was given up, and that no attempt would be made to land. Lieut. Harris arrived with dispatches from Lord Keith and Sir Ralph Abercrombie, stating the circumstances of their having found it necessary, under their discretionary orders they had received, to abandon the object of the expedition, as the Turks refused to co-operate with them in the undertaking. This was the report; and as such we give it without vouching for its authenticity.

The French have undertaken to march an army of 40,000 men through Spain to attack the frontiers of Portugal. Indeed, without them, the Spaniards would be but little to be feared. There are obstacles, however, to this disproportioned enterprise, which it will at least demand much time to overcome. The difficulty of procuring subsistance and fixed magazines is not trifling. The frontiers manned by French or English troops would be impassable by which-ever was the assailant; and will be so now to the Spaniards. But much hope cannot be cherished of their being able to resist the Republican army. Portugal, at least, has nothing to fear from the war worse than the friendship of French garrisons; and the Prince Regent has the benefit of the experience of the King of Sardinia in circumstances very nearly parallel to his own. The war may at any rate give the wrecks of the throne, with the colonies and the marine.

It is very certain that Paul I. has promised to send a fleet into the Texel, to co-operate with the Dutch Navy. His Majesty must have forgotten the interruptions to which it is liable.

An Inquisition was taken on Thursday last by Mr. Tubb, Coroner for this City, on view of the body of William Johnson, a journeyman Carpenter, aged 47, who the same morning was found drowned in the Canal, in the parish of St. Giles, near Heyfield's Hut. He had been missing upwards of a fortnight.—Verdict, Drowned, but how or what means to the Jurors unknown.

A very considerable fall in the article of leather took place at Bristol fair last week, at which there was a greater quantity for sale than was ever known before: prices were

Dressing hides,	15d.	to 17d.
Horse hides,	11d.	to 14d.

Wheat and Barley fell in price at Devizes market on Thursday last; there was very little demand for the former article.—There was not so very full supply of Wheat at Warminster on Saturday, yet the sale was dull, and the prices no wise on the advance; the best not worth more than from 9l. to 9l. 4s. a quarter. Barley about 2s. a quarter lower, and Oats considerably lower. Good grass seeds very dear, and much wanted. Verches, and other Lent seeds, little variation.

Saturday evening Thomas Alder, of Longney, was stopped about a mile from Glocester, by two men, dressed in white jackets and trowsers, and white caps. They robbed him of a leathank note and some cash. The same evening as Farmer Gingell was returning home, he was attacked by two men (probably the same fellows) who knocked him off his horse, and were proceeding to rob him, when two neighbours coming up, they made off.

Friday a curious circumstance came before the Justices at Wootten-Underedge; a young woman was charged by a farmer's son with stealing his father's turnips; she acknowledged having taken six, and in excultation said, she did it for the purpose of drawing out Master John, to inform him of her pregnancy by him, which she confirmed on oath, to the no small mirth of the company.
