HOUSE OF LORDS, Thursday, March 10.

LORD HOBART delivered to the House the following Message from his Majesty:—

"G. R.

"In consequence of the formidable military preparations carrying on in the Ports of France and Holland, pending the discussion of an important Negociation between his Majesty's Government and that of France, the result of which cannot yet be known, his Majesty expains to this House, that actuated by the concern he always feels for the security and welfare of his subjects, he has thought it necessary to exercise the powers vested in him by Act of Parliament, for calling out, and embodying forthwith, the Militia of these Kingdoms, or such part thereof as his Majesty shall think proper for the defence and safety of his Kingdoms, not doubting that his Parliament will approve the same."

Lord Hobart moved, than an humble Address be presented to his Majesty, to thank his Majesty for his gracious communication to this House, and to express its cheerful concurrence in his Majesty's determination; which passed nem. con.

HOUSE OF COMMONS, Thursday, March 10.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer brought down a Message from his Majesty, communicating, in same words as in the Message to the Lords, his intention immediately to call out the Militia.—After the Message had been read,

The Secretary at War moved an Address, which echoed the language and sentiments of the Message, and was unanimously agreed to.

LONDON, March 11.

Prior to his Majesty's Message being sent to Parliament, Press Warrants had been issued, which, immediately on their delivery, were acted upon. During the whole of the night of Tuesday a remarkably hot press took place on the river Thames. A great many colliers, and other vessels, being in the Pool, a number of able hands were picked up. The business had been so judiciously arranged by Government, and so discreetly conducted by those they employed, that the impress was not generally known on Wednesday morning among the seamen, at which time a great number were impressed in the City, the Lord Mayor having backed the Warrants for that purpose. His Lordship gave the greatest part of yesterday in hearing the appeals of those persons who conceived themselves impressed unwarrantably, and a day of greater bustle in the City is not in remembrance.

Many of the impressed men and volunteers (for many volunteers enter) were sent yesterday from the ships at Woolwich and Deptford.

The Admiralty Board has been sitting to a late hour every night since Saturday, Earl St. Vincent presiding, though unwell.

The Admiralty Clerks sat up all Tuesday night, making out Press Warrants and dispatches to the different ports.—Dispatches are also prepared for all our foreign stations, to apprise them of the state of affairs, and every step preparatory to War is taking.

Dispatches have been sent to Portsmouth to be forwarded to the Mediterranean. In the dispatch which is to carry out these dispatches, Capt. Dodd, Aid-de-Camp to his Royal Highness the Governor of Gibraltar, goes out again to that garrison. He carries with him dispatches to his Royal Highness the Duke of Kent.

Orders were last night dispatched to Chatham to get ready for sea, as quickly as possible, every ship at that place, that can be equipped for service.

Orders have been issued for the artificers in His Majesty's Dock Yards, to work as much extra time as they possibly can, in completing the repairs of the ships of war now in dock, and those ordered into dock, when there may be room to receive them.

OXFORD, MARCH 12.

On Monday last this City, in Common Council assembled, voted the following very loyal and affectionate Address to his Majesty on the discovery and the defeat of the late traitorous conspiracy, which was immediately transmitted to their Members in Parliament, to be presented to his Majesty:—

"To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty:

"We, your Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects the Mayor, Bailiffs, and Commonalty of the City of Oxford, in Common Council assembled, most humbly beg leave to approach your Majesty with our sincerest congratulations on your Majesty's providential deliverance from the late dangerous conspiracy aimed against the sacred person of your Majesty, and the Government and Constitution of the Country.

"Impressed as we are with a sense of the blessings we enjoy under your Majesty's mild and excellent Government, directed at all times to the maintenance and support of every measure essential to the welfare and prosperity of your subjects, we reflect with no less astonishment than horror, that there should be found who could for a moment entertain designs so hostile to their Sovereign and their country.

"As faithful and loyal subjects affectionately attached to our King and Constitution, we cannot but admire the wisdom and justice of the law and of your Majesty's Councils, in having made such wicked and dangerous traitors the instruments of public example and detirrence to others: but as all human means may fail short of defeating the machinations of designing men, when resolutely and impiously bent on mischief, we devoutly implore that the same watchful hand of the Almighty, which has so often and so signally preserved your Majesty amidst dangers equally alarming and threatening, may continue its protection and care over a life so intimately connected with the dearest rights, interests, and happiness of us all. And under the same kind Providence may this and every other country under your Majesty's dominion be for ever effectually defended against those vile principles and their attendant calamities which its enemies have been plotting, and insidiously endeavouring to introduce, to the subversion of our present happy establishment."

Given under our Common Seal the 7th of March, 1803.

To the Printer of the Oxford Journal.

SIR, The under-written thinks it his duty to the public to mention a circumstance that may increase in inconvenience and impudence, if not checked.

About a month since I sent by the mail-coach from Northleach, which goes from Gloucester to London, a HARE, carriage paid, (One Shilling and Eight-Pence) properly booked, and with my name attested as qualified. The coachman delivered it in Piccadilly as he passed, but not without an extra Two Shillings, though the servant observed it was previously paid for. I wrote to WILLIAMS, of Oxford, WILLAN, of London, and HEATH, at Gloucester, offensible proprietors of the light and heavy coaches.—From the two first I had ready answers, "That they had no concern in the partnership."—After a like advertisement to this had gone to Gloucester, HEATH wrote not "He had nothing to do with the upper coaches." Servants are under the dominion, or ought to be, of their masters; and therefore I call on the masters, if I can find them; but "hic labor, hoc opus est;" and I shall do all I can to have submission made by masters or servants. This in the coachman is an offence, "getting money by false pretences." I am, Sir, your's,

A Magistrate of Gloucestershire.

March 7, 1803.

AT a numerous and respectable Meeting of the Nobility, Gentry, Clergy, and Freeholders of the County of Oxford, convened in the Town Hall, in Oxford, on Wednesday the 9th Day of March, 1803, by public Advertisement from JAMES TAYLOR, Esq. the High Sheriff, to address his Majesty on his providential Escape from the late transmable and dangerous Conspiracy against his Person, Government, and the Constitution of the United Kingdom,

The Sheriff being prevented attending the Meeting by Indisposition, GEORGE FREDERICK STRATTON, Esq. of Tew Park, attended for him; and in a very appropriate Speech stated the Cause of the Meeting being convened, and having quitted the Chair, was unanimously requested to refume the same.

The Hon. Colonel PARKER then proposed an Address of Congratulation to his Majesty, on his late providential Escape, which was seconded by SAMUEL GARDINER, Esq. and a Committee being appointed, they withdrew and prepared an Address, which was read, and unanimously approved, and the Sheriff was requested to sign the same in the Name of the Meeting.

The Sheriff, and the Members for the County, accompanied by such Noblemen and Gentlemen as may think proper to attend, were requested to present the Address to his Majesty on Wednesday next; and, in Case of the continued Indisposition of the Sheriff, Mr. STRATTON was requested to present it for him.

The Thanks of the Meeting were unanimously voted to the Sheriff, for his early Attention to the Requisition, and in convening the Meeting.

The Chairman was requested to sign the Resolutions in the Name of the Meeting, and it was resolved that the same should be inserted in the Oxford, Reading, and two London Papers.

GEO. FRED. STRATTON, Chairman.

The Chairman having quitted the Chair, the Thanks of the Meeting were unanimously voted to him, for his handsome and able Conduct in the Chair.
