WOOLWICH ARSENAL NO DECISION YET AS TO REMOVAL

REMOVAL

Mr. Douglas Hacking (Parliamentary UnderSecretary, Home Office) stated in the House of Commons yesterday that no decision had been reached as to the removal of the Royal Ordnance Factory from Woolwich.
No special inquiry into the matter was taking place other than the usual periodical review of the vulnerability of War Office establish

The statement was in reply to Captain Arthur Evans (Conservative, Cardiff South, who asked whether the Government was aware that either Cardiff or Penarth could provide excellent facilities for the establishment of such a munition factory, while offering a unique position from a defensive point of view.
Captain Evans also asked if a deputation

JURY STOP CASE FANTASTIC & RIDICULOUS STORY "—Counsel

"It may seem to you an astounding fact that for 20 years Bootle Corporation have employed cotensibly a male attendant at their public baths who is a woman," said by Mr. M. R. F. Rogers at Liverpool Quarter Sessions vestment of the property of Bootle, who was charged with indecent assult.

the Boother.

The Boother was charged with indecent assault.

He described what was alleged to have taken place when a youth of 16 went for a private bath. The youth said that Mann was a woman, and made a complaint to the police.

And the Boother was a complaint to the police.

The said a complaint of the said Mann with this fantastic and ridiculous story," he said.

E. Emerson said the suggestion that Mann was a woman was pure nonsense. He was a normal man.

While Mann was in the box the jury stopped the case, and he was acquitted.

The jury expressed the hope that Mann would be allowed to retain his position.

MESSAGE IN THE DUS1

A Trassury note on the covering of a well and an eight-words message fingered in dust reading. 'I leave all my money to Even, Dad,'' aroused the fears of a farmer when he went to inspect a well on the Duke of Bedford's estate yesterday.
He looked down the well 'and saw a man's leg a few inches above the level of the water. Later the body of Reginal Leslie Redwell (33), a naval stoker, of Lidlington, water, was brought to the down on sick leave from H.M.S. Sussex. 'His sister's name is Evelyn, and it is believed that the money is meant for her.
