Yesterday Lord Dudley and Ward kissed the Queen's Haard at St. James's, on his Appointment to be Post-Master General, in the room of Lord Le Despencer, deceastd.

His Majesty is not to attend Divine Service at St. James's on Christmas-Day, as usual, but is to remain at Windsor iil Thesday Schmight.

On Wednessay Serving Dispatches were received at Lord Stormont's Office, from Sweden and Demarks, which were immediately sent to the King at St. James's.

The House of Peers was Yesterday adjourned to the 30th Day of January next.

The Bishop of Litchield and Coventry is desired to peach before the House of Peers at the Abbey-Church, Westminser, on Wednessay the 30th of January next.

Admiral Kempensch, as soon as he found he was unable to retard the Passage of the French Fleet, immediately dispatched a sat-falling Sloop to the Westmidies, with the Information that this formidable Armament was on its Way to that Quarter, and recommending that the most speed, January the Experiment of the Governors of the disserting and the speed to peach with the Information that this formidable Armament was on the Way to that Quarter, and recommending that the most speed, January next that the description of the State of Defence their Situation would admit, as no Doubt was to be entervined that a dangerous Attack would soon be made against one of them, though the particular Object was hitherto undiscovered.

Sir Richard Pearson, who brought the Express from Admiral Kempenselft, reports, that fo very determined were the French in the Prosecution of the intended Empedition, that they appeared to have but oce Object in View; and that was, to get the Start of our Fleet in their Courie towards the West Indies, and never once attempted a Pursuit of the British Fleet, not even after their great Superiority was so apparent, nor somme foon as the Speaker returned from the House

As foon as the Speaker returned from the House of Peets,

Sir Gryg Gopper moved, That the House, at its Rising, should adjourn to Tuesday the 22d of January next.

This brought on a very warm and interesting Debate, which was opened by Mr. Bings, who repeated the Word adjourn with strong Emphasis and Marks of Surpixe;—asking how could Geutlemen think of going into the Country, and leave the Affairs of the Publick in the alarming Situation in which they these beheld them? Had Gentlemen read last Tuesday's Gazette? He asked if the Sovereign did not want Advice, if the Times were not critical, and if the Way to give his Majefty Council, was to break up and adjourn? The late Event at Sea afforded a strong Proof the Necessity of enquiring into the State of the Navy; and of endeavouring to discover the Cause, why texchev Ships of the Line had been feet out to watch nineteen. The Noble Lord at the Head of the Admiralty had, in another Place declared what ought to be the Punishment of the Naval Minister, who flould not have a Force equal to that of the whole House of Bourhon: But he understood that of late that Noble Lord had qualified his Declaration; and faid that short had qualified his Declaration; and faid that fuch a Superiority or Equality was to be expected in Europe?—It remained then that the Moble Lord thould be judged upon his own Grounds; and be compelled to account for that Inferiority of capected to be well attended, as the Members feldom returned from the Country after the Holidays before that Time.

Great Latitude was taken in this Debate, and the Cabinet, as well as the Lords of the Admiralty, very fewerely centimed for Negligenes, want of Intelligence, and want of Abitay.

Mr. Martin having heard the London Gazette mentioned in the Courfe of the Debate, took that Opportunity to complain, that when Events of Laportance were to be communicated to the Public, the Gazette made its Appearance at fo late an Hour, that People could not get an Opportunity to gratify their honeft Curiotity; he wifned therefore that fome Regulation thould be made, by which the Printer of the Gazette floud be obliged to publish his Paper at an earlier Hour than he usually does, when he has Matter of Confequence to relate.

Mr. Burke defired to know if Motions fhould be made for Papers neceffary to the Enquiry into the Administration of the Navy, whether the noble Lord in the blue Ribbon would oppose fuch Motions or not?

Lord North faid he could give no Answer to such oughtion; he thould fist know what the Papers to be moved for were, and then he could give his Opinion; but until he thould know what the Motion was, he could not tell whether he should be for it or against it.

Sir William Dubles faid he was one of those Persons who had been described as creditions Country Gen-could not tell whether he flould be for it or againf it.

Sir William Dollor faid he was one of those Persons who had been decirbed as creditions Country Gentlemen; but though from Principle he had supported Administration, he was not blind to the Necessity of an Enquiry into the State of the Nivy, which both Sides of the House feemed at present to call for: He believed the Noble Lord in the blue Ribbon would not result to vote for the Production of any Papers necessary to the Enquiry; but he would speak confidently for himself; that he would vote for all Papers that e old tend to enable the House to form a Judgement on the Condus? of the Board of Admiralty, Very likely there would be found, upon Enquiry, great Subject for Praise, some possibly for Centure; but before-hand he was free to say, that he would,
gwithout either Affection or Prejudice, or Partialty, wite in Centure or Approbation; just as his Judgement flouid tell him that either had been deserved.

Mr. Barke then prefented a Paper by Way of Petition, which was entitled, The Reprefentation and Prayer of Henry Laurens, a Native of Philadelphia, fome Time recognized by the Committioners for refloring Peace to North America, by the Name of his Excellency Henry Laurens, Prefident of Congrefs. This Petition brought about a floot Convertation betheen Mr. Burke, Lord North, and the Solicitor-General, and was ordered to lie on the Table.
