I. O. N. D. O. N., JANUARY 18.

THIS Day the Court of Charcery, was up at the King's Council. The Lord Chancellor and the King's Council went immediately to St. James's, to compliment their Majefties on the Birth Day of the Oricea; upon which Occasion the Court was uncommody tplendid.

Yetherday a great Number of the Nobility arrived in Toxa from their Country Seats, to pay their Compliments to their Majesties this Day, on the above Occasion.

Last Night the Marquis de Cordon, the Ambassadirly at Buckingham House.

A Cabinet Consell are summoned to meet Tomorrow Evening at Bight o'Clock, at the Cock-Pit, Whitchall.

Advice was Yesterday received at the Admiralty, that the Robustle Man of War from New York (in which Lord Cornwalls and General Amold were coming home Passengers) was so much out of Repair, and fo very leaky, that she was obliged to bear away for St. Kitt's. His Lordship and Mr. Arnold went on board the Greybound armed Ship, and Col. Tarleton, who is arrived in a Merchantman, left them of the Cornegae Servanian's from America; as did fiveral off the Weikern Iflands on their Voyage for England. Yeikerday Morning Col. Tarleton arrived at Lord George Germain's, from America; as did feveral other Officers, on their Parole, who furrendered with Lord Cornwallie.

Yeikerday as foon as the Arrival of Colonel Lake was notified, his Royal Highnefs the Prince of Wales, and the Duke of Cumberland, went perfonally, and conducted him, Arm in Arm, from the Hotel in King Street, St. Jamee's, to the Duke's Houte, where he direct with their Royal Highneffes, and afterwards fpent the Evening.

The following Extract of a Letter fhould be an Example to all Sover igns, to point out to them how careful they fhould be to make the Civil Power their Dominions completely independent of the Military: The Auftrian Government is principally Military; but fill the Emperor, though he owes his great Contestence in Europe to his Army, does not forest the Retpect he owes to the Civil Department in his Government, as appears from the following:

Letter from Bruffelt, dated December 1.

Letter from Bruffelt, duted December 17.

"The Emperon not thinking it proper that the Police should be supported by the Army, except in Cafes where the Police should not be able to maintain itself, has given Directions that the Magistrates in his different Cities shall look to, and provide for the Support of the Police themselves; and therefore his Majesty has been pleased to supports all the Military Polts, at which Military Continels used to be formerly placed, to protect the Police."

If we can trust to the last Letters from France, the great St. Domingo Fleet, which arrived at Brest the 7th of September last, is not the only one that is expected from that sland this Winter; for they write from Paris, that Mond, Albert de St. Hippolite was to be detached by Conte de Grasse with a Number of Men of War, to concey to Europe another Fleet of Merchantmen, consisting of 300 Sail.

The Duke de la Vanguyon has succeeded in Holland, in his Proposals for a Loan of 5, coo,000 of Florins for France. The States-General have agreed to carry the Payment of Three per Cent. Interest on this Loan, which may be deemed an Act of the greatest Condescention from that High Mightians from the Port of London.

The King of Prasses has appointed Mr. Schassian Frydag, his Consid in England, but principally in the Port of London.

Lieutenant-Colonel Coelburn is the Son of a Medical Gentleman, Resident at Kilkenny in Ireland. The Fasher was a Native of Scorland, but the Son was shorn in Ireland. He married a Girl against the particular Wishes of his Father, from which Time he was never countenanced by him. He was at last under the Nocestily of enlisting as a common Soldier in the Army; from which Rank he has rofe to his prefert Sainon.— He has a Wife and Children, at a finall Distance from London.

On Tuestay last his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, with the Duke of Camberland, and divers other Gentlemen, took the Divertion of Etag-Hunting; when after a Chace of feveral Hours, the Stag having crofted the Thames from Maidenhead Thicket, passed through the Gardens adjoining the Turmpike at High-Wycombe, Bucks, and was killed upon the Heaths a little above that Town.—His Royal Highness, with the Duke of Cumberland, &c. &c. returned to the Red Lion at High-Wycombe, and after having had a little Refreshment, took Post-Chaife from thence for Windfor.—There was a large Field in at the Death.

The great Argument which has been used with Lord North by the Lincoln and Leicester Members, &c. in Relation to the Peritions for a Wool Export, is that great Quantities are singled already, and therefore the Enemies of the Measure should not urge the Danger of sending the Quantity out of the Kingdom which they suppose yould go in Consequence of this Freedom. It is computed that 100,000 Packs are annually sinuggled from the Coast of Lincolnshire.

The Means that are used to sinuage Wool are various, but the Praceignal is that of ferewing it into 6 small space, that a whole Pack goes into a moderate faced Barrel, which is brought back full of Wine, Brandy, or Gin. They have very powerful Screws on purpose for this Operation. When it is confidered that Snuggling out is a standing Encouragement to Smuggling in, it will be thought by all reasonable Persons that a regulated Export, paying a Duty, would be a natural adviscable Measure.

The manufacturing Towns will no Doubt oppose the Woollen Export, but Lord North paining for the Public and Addition to the Revenue of 300,000. a Vear on Wool, and 50,000. by lessenger the Smugging Trade, with it a powerful Motive with him for giving that Measure the Asilinance and Support of Government.

Saturday Evening, as a Poft-Chaife was returning to Exeter by the Aphington Road, the Driver went into the Rever near the Plymouth Inn, to water his Horfes and waffi the Chaife, when, the Current being very rapid, it carried them away, by which Means the Driver and both Horfes were drowned; the latter, which the Chaife, were taken up the next Morning the Driver and noth forties were drowned; the latter, with the Chaffe, were taken up the next Morning below Drew's Weate, and it is very remarkable that the Chaffe was not the leaft damaged. Providentially the Driver put down a Woman and Child a few Minutes before this raclancholy Accident

BIRMINGHAM, 12th January, 1782.

To the Inhabitants of Birmingham, and others, who are fupplied with Coal from the faid Town.

To the Inhabitants of Birmingham, and others, who are Japplied sumb Coal yron the Jaid Towns.

I Observe by last Thurday's News-paper, that a Meeting of the Gentlemen and Tradelinen of Birmingham was meanimonly resolved to apply to Parliament the present sets that cannot fend their Coal to Birmingham for Want of lich Communication, and that it was also unanimously determined, that if the intended Canal is carried into Execution, it will be of great Advantage to this Town in particular, and to the Public in general, that a Subfeription will be immediately opened to carry the Scheme into Execution.

Having attentively confidered this Subject, I am fully convinced, great Advantages mult installibly arise from it to every Inhabitant of this Town in particular, and to the Country in general, and have thought proper to lay some few Remarks on the Scheme heteroc the Public.

The greater the Quantity of any Article, that is brought to Market, the lower mult be the Price; this is an unconvertable Fast universally known and acknowledged, and will certainly hold good with seiped Coal, as much as any convertable fast universally known and acknowledged, and will certainly hold good with seiped Coal, as much as any other convertable Fast universally known and acknowledged, and will certainly hold good with seiped Coal, as much as any other convertable therefore as the intended Navigation will go the coal and the self-coal and there already forms large Works are established, of Coal, and there already forms large Works are established. The coal to the self-coal to the price whenever the intended Canal is completed, by bringing fo great an additional Quantity to Market.

By carrying this Canal to Fazeley, there to communicate with the Coventry Canal, our Manufeltures will be lent to Colerothic and the adjacent Countries, as also to London on much lower Terms than at prefent, and you will receive the Prices.

By the Communication from Fazeley to Fradley-Heath, feane Advantaces will ack to this Yown and the Public.

pleatiful Supply of your Market, which in Courfe will reduce the Prices
By the Communication from Fazeley to Fradley-Reath, the fame Advantages will as fit to this Fown and the Public, by fending your Goods cheaper to Hull and Gainfborough, being flooter by upwards of 18 Milles than by the prefent Canals, and Two shillings and Theopence per Ton will be faxed in Tonnage only, befides Freight, for the very Parge Quantities of Goods that are both received from, and fent to thole Ports. By executing the intended Canal upen a low Level, collateral Cuts can eafily be made to all the numerous Mines of Cool on each Side of the Canal, which are fulficiently numerous to (apply the Demand of Birmingliams, and the Upper Coustry, for Ages to come.

The Proposers of this Scheme intend (flould an AG be achieved) to have a Claude inferred, to empower certain Verfons to be nominated in the AG, to ereck whatever Weighing Machines may be necessary within the Parish, the Frosts of which, to be appropriated either to the Repairs of the Santon Canal is proposed to be taken to the lower Part of Dishibit the warms the second to the lower.

Streets, or to the Relief of the Poor, as shall be most agree-able to the Inhabitants.

As the intended Canal is proposed to be taken to the lower Part of Digboth, the greatest Part, if not all the Waggins that take Coals to Warwick, Stratford, &c. will certainly load there, consequently the Streets will not be torn up as they are at present, and repaired at very great Expense by the In-habitants, which every Housekeeper knows by Experience.

habitants, which every Houfekeeper knows by Experience. It does not appear to me, that any Individual can make a reafonable Objection to the executing this Canal, except the intereft-d Proprietors of the preferit one; but, it is perfued fitch Information can be laid before Parliament as will tender every Objection of theirs of no Avail.

Should it be necellary, I will, at a future Time, lay forme further Advantages that may be derived from this ciscles. VERITAS.
