WWWWWWWWWWWWWWW SATURDAY'S POST.

[Brought down from London by Express.] HOUSE of COMMONS, Thursday, Feb. 9.

THE Bill brought in by Mr. Burke to remove the difficulties that might be thrown in the way of Impeachments, by the Act which prevents the House from proceeding to any business fave that of swearing in Members, from the day fixed for balloting for a felset Committee, until such bullot is concluded, was read a third time, passed, and carried up to the Lords by Mr. Burke. Lords by Mr. Burke.

LIBELS and QUO WARRANTO.

Mr. Fox brought in two Bills; one to explain the power and functions of Juries in the trial of profecutions for Libels; the other, to explain the Act of the 9th of Queen Anne, relative to proceedings in the nature of a Quo Warranto.

These two Bills were each read a first time, and ordered to be printed for the use of the Members.

Order of the Day.

ORDER OF THE DAY.

Major Mailland rofe, pursuant to the notice he had given the House on a former day, to move for certain Papers relative to the war now carrying on in India.

Mr. Francis seconded the motion, in a speech of some length, in which he went over the principal grounds that had been taken by Major Mailland.

fome length, in which he went over the principal grounds that had been taken by Major Mailand.

Mr. Dundar, in a forcible speech, replied to the mover and seconder of the motion. He did not intend to enter into a desence of Lord Cornwallis's character; it wanted none; but he could not help observing that some expressions had fallen from the Gentlemen on the other side, which one Gentleman ought not to die to another, particularly to an absent Officer, who had no means of defending himself.

With respect to the papers moved for, he had no objection to produce them, excepting those relative to the overtures of peace made by Tippoo; not only because no such papers existed, but because if there were such papers, he should conceive it, as he always had, extremely improper to produce papers relating to a treaty of peace, while the negociation was pending.

Gentlemen had faid, that Lord Cornwallii had acted from instructions, and not from his own opinion; but he would take upon himself to fay, that there was a most perfect coincidence of opinion between his Lordship and the Ministers of this Country, and he would, without the slightest hesitation, take upon himself the blame of every one act of his Lordship during the whole course of the transaction.

Mr. Fax reprobated the doctrine laid down by Minister, stat magners much tan to he produced during miles.

Mr. For reprobated the doctrine laid down by Miniters, that papers ought not to be produced during a war; if that were fo, Ministers might plunge the nation in a war—they might exhaust its blood and treature, and Parliament would have no opportunity of preventing it: the only remedy they had, was to impeach the Minister, a measure not always practicable or just; such doctrine was incompatible with the Constitution of this Country, and ought to be universally reprobated.

Mr. Hippiller rose to make his promised motion, which he did without any preface to the following effect: "That the copies of, and extracts from letters be-Mr. Fox reprobated the doctrine laid down by Mi

"That the copies of, and extracts from letters between the late Sir Archibald Campbell and Brigadier Major Bannerman, authorifing the purchase and acquisition of the forts of Crangamore and Riagata, and the Rajah of Travancore, be laid before the House."

Majan of Iravancore, be laid before the Houle.

Mr. Pitt fuggested, across the table, that the motion would be more unexceptionable, if "respecting the purchase," were substituted for "authoriting," which being agreed to by Mr. Hippisley, the motion was carried without a division.

Adjourned at half past seven o'clock.

CANAL NAVIGATION.

Mr. PRINTER,
THE Advantages of Canals in a Commercial Country like this, are fo many and fo obvious, that it is unnecefary to expatiate in their Favour; but above all the Schemes of this Kind, which have either been projected or carried into Execution, no one feems to embrace or carried into Execution, no one feems to embrace fuch a Variety of capital Objects, or to be fo well calculated to promote the general Interefts of the Community, as that announced in your JOURNAL of laft Week. A regular, and comparatively an unexpensive Communication between the inland Counties and the Metropolis, must be attended with the most beneficial Confequences to this Kingdom in general; and it cannot fail to afford the highest Satisfaction to the great Commercial Towns of MANCHESTER and BIRMINGHAM in particular, as well as to the whole Country in the in particular, as wen as to the whole country in the Line of the projected Canal, to find that the Scheme appears not only practicable, but feafible beyond Expectation. The Metropolis, independent of other important Confiderations, is likely to receive such a liberal Supply of Water in those Parts where the New River Company cannot extend their beneficial Insuence, that its warmeft Support may most reasonably be expected. The Noblemen and Gentlemen likewise, through whose Lands the intended Cut is to pass, are too patriotic to give the Plan any Opposition, even were it less favour-able to their Interests; but when the immense Advan-tages which will accrue to their Estates are regarded, tages which will accuse to and furely those are not problematical! the utmost Unanimity of all Parties concerned may be relied on. Private Views, indeed, may incline individuals to vary the Line of Debarkation; but when it is confidered the Line of Debarkation; but when it is confidered that private Objects should never be opposed to publick Utility : that the most direct Line which the Situation Utility; that the most direct Line which the situation will allow, confiltent with the Rights and Interefts of former Proprietors, is certainly to be preferred; and that the projected one is as beneficial to the Publick as any that can be propofed, and the least interferes with the Interefts of other Canal Companies; it will evidently appear, that the fincered Thanks are juffly due to those Gentlemen, whoever they are, who with so much Judgment and Impartiality have submitted the Outlines of their Plan to the publick Difeuffion. In fhort, it would be doing Injuffice to fome of the most respectable Counties and Landholders in the Kingdom, respeciable Counties and Landholders in the Kingdom, to imagine that ultimate Success will not attend fisch a publick-fpirited Attempt, in which private Emolument will be fo intimately blended with the general Good. And here let us reflect, that while other Nations feel the fad Effects of unbridled Democracy, or are har-raffed by vain Endeavours to support the tottering Fabric of Despotism, it is our happier Lot to enjoy the Bleslings of a mild and well-regulated Constitution, and to have no other Objects to attend to, fave those of in-ternal Policy, the Extension of Trade, and Works of publick Utility. Let us improve the Advantages we possifess! And as our Ancestors have secured to us every Thing that is valuable in Government, let us discharge our Duty to our Country and our Pofferity by an At-tention to perpetuate the Acquifitions we have re-ceived; and firenuotary exert ourfelves to encrease the Stock of publick Happiness and Prosperity by Means the most honourable and praise-worthy, by the Arts of Peace, the Diffusion of Commercial Intercourse, and ftrengthening the Bands of polifhed Society!
