SATURDAY'S POST.

[Brought down from LONDON by EXPRESS.]

DOVER, OCTOBER 31.

H IS Majeily's Packet Boat the Courier, Captain Boyton, arrived this afternoon to attend duty, from Oftend. By her we learn, that a French deferter arrived there last Monday from the Army before Nieuport, with an account that an assault was intended to be made that evening; and on Tuesday morning, just before the Packet failed, accounts were received that fuch affault had been made, when the French were driven back with confiderable lofs. The Inhabitants of Oftend appear free from fear, as a reinforcement is arrived there, and more are expected.

Lord George Conway arrived here this day about noon, from London, and fails in His Majesty's Packet Boat the Carteret this evening for Ostend.

LONDON, NOVEMBER 1.

Yefterday an Officer came to the Secretary of State's Office with Letters from Offend, which mention the arrival of Sir Charles Grey there on Monday Iaft.

This morning Letters were received from Oflend by exprefs—They are dated on the 29th ultimo. The French on the 28th were dated by the English of the English of the English of the English of the English on the place. A reinforcement of Heilians and Cannon had been thrown into the Town. Thirteen Hundred Troops had made a most gallant defence against Eight Thousand, the number of the Enemy before the Walls

At Offend every thing was tranquil, and for the fate of Nienport, not the smallest apprehensions were entertained.

No official Accounts, nor even authenticated reports, have reached this Country, of the taking of Strafbourg and Landau, as litated in fome of the papers of yefterday; though the pleafing confirmation of fuch an event may be confidently expected, as we have already flated the Siege of Strafbourg was to commence on the 22d ulrimo, and Landau was in flames from the bombardment of the Allies, when the last Messenger came away.

By Accounts from Jamaica, dated on the 8th of Sep-By Accounts from Jamaica, dated on the 8th of Sep-tember, it appears that a body of Troops, to the amount of 800 or 1000 men, were going to take poffession of a part of the Hand of St. Domingo. It was supposed, and indeed considently expected, that a great part of the Island would declare in favour of the English.

The Spaniards, it was likewife faid, were in poffession of one or two important places on the West part lof the Island, which they had recently taken from the French

The Cabinet has refolved, forthwith, to raife all the Regiments of Foot to a their and raid and file, by the addition of a Lieutenant Colonel, a Major, and 400 rank and file to each Regiment. There is no means of doing this for economically as by advancing the complement of the old Regiments, initized of forming a new Corps. Ministers will have 156 Commissions of Field-Officers to give away by this increase, but no Subaltern Commissions. A further economy is to be made, by the fale of Commissions, beyond the regular sim allowed for volunteers.

On Wendersday Field Marthal Freytag and Gen. Ainssie arrived in Town from the Continent, and yesterday had an interview with the Minister, at his house, Downing-Breet.

interview with the Minifler, at his houfe, Downing-freet. A French Officer who had been imprifoned at Alresford, and liberated on his parole, one day laft week made his efcape from Worthing in a boat belonging to a fifterman, which he made tree with for that purpose. On the shore nigh to where he embarked, were found his coat, two waifleosts, and a pocket-book.

The French threaten to attack the small Island of St. Helena, which is strong by nature, and easily defended; but, unleft shey could take some of our East-Indiamen, the conquest would be of little confequence, and would soon be abandoned by them after it had been plandered.

Capt. Grey took leave Yefterday of the Committioners of the Admiralty, on going to take the command of the Boyne of 98 guns.

On Monday laft was committed to Warwick Goal by Jof. Carles, Efg. Thomas Wood, for affaulting Mr. Barrs in the due execution of his office of collecting the Rate incurred by the Riots of Monday fe'nnight, as mentionation of the Monday fe'nnight, as mentional in our latt. At the fame time was committed to the Houfe of Correction, not being able to obtain furcties for his good behaviour, Jofeph Darby, for threatening to pull down the prifon.

On Sautday laft the following accident happened a few miles from Hereford:—As a waggon loaded with coal, and drawn by five horfer, was crofting the River Wye, at Sugwas-Ford, the rapidity of the current forced the horfes down the fiream. Three of them were loft; and, unfortunately, the lad who rode the finth horfe was also drowned, after having for a confiderable time kept himfelf above water, crying out for affittance; and the waggoner was with great difficulty faved,—This difafler was wholly imputable to the obflinacy of the driver.

The "awful gloom" that concealed the fate of 17 men and boys at Edord coal-pit, (who were fupposed to have been overwhelmed wnile at work on Tuelday fe'nnight) was at midnight removed; when from the mouth of an old haft their voices were heard, and one by one were brought up, and reflored to their wives, children and relatives, amidt a feene of fuch transport and joy as none but the feeling heart can conceive. Driven by the torrent of water that burft in upon them, they were providentially faved, by creeping through the dark abyfs to the shaft of an old pit.

From the Number of Petitions already prefented to the House of Commons, it is very probable a Tax on Dogs will form Part of the Minister's next Budget. And whether we confider this Tax in a moral or political View, it is much to be wished for, and carnelly recommended. The Poor will thus be relieved from a most unnecediary Expence by the Deltruction of a valt Number of uffels and dangerous Animals; and the rich will be secured in their Privileges and Sports by a moderate additional Sacrifice to the Publick, which will operate more for the Prefervation of the Game than a Thousand penal Statutes.
