LONDON, October 25. BY the Hamburg mail which arrived yesterday, it seems no general battle has yet taken place—but the accounts are a day later than those brought by the French and Dutch papers. Bernadotte entered Munich on the 22nd inst. The other divisions of the army were at the same time crossing the Lech at Augsburg, to attack the Austrians at Ulm. The whole Austrian army is concentrated at Ulm, and it is probable that the movements they have made lately, if successful, that they will to decline a general battle as long as possible.

The guard guard of the Ruffians is arrived at Bannau upon the Inn. The King of Prussia has written a letter to the Emperor of Russia, in which he grants permission to the Russian troops to pass through his territories. The Vienna Court Gazette asserts, that the relations between Prussia, Russia, and Austria, are becoming more and more intimate. Twenty thousand men have been detached from the Austrian army in Italy, and sent to make an attack upon the Archduke Charles. The Ruffians have begun their march from Strauld towards Mecklenburgh. The dispatches which Government received from Berlin are of a nature which are not to the disposition of the King of Prussia. Ministers, it is thought, will avail themselves of this critical moment to make new application to the Court of Berlin; and some probability of success will be felt therein on an extraordinary mission. Independent of the co-operation of Prussia, of which we receive hopes are entertained, the combined English, Russian, and Swedish forces may collect in the North of Germany, and march into Holland by Overysel, which we should consider the most certain and effectual way of invading the Continent. We shall avail ourselves of the permission of Prussia to march into Germany, forming a powerful diversion in favour of the other armies.

The Dutch papers say, that several of the first Nobility of Spain have been exiled from Madrid. They are chiefly those attached to the late Emperor of Spain, and are probably the same who rendered themselves obnoxious by their remonstrances to the Prince of the Peace, on the forced issues of paper money. In Italy it was thought hostilities would be commenced about the middle of next week, probably, particularly as it is said that 20,000 men had been drawn from thence, in consequence of the extraordinary and unexpected amount of the French force in Germany.

The Mable letter of marquis, of Liverpool, failed from London on the 27th of September, arrived at Oporto on the 27th of October, but none of the others which failed with her had reached that port on the 8th of October. We are happy, however, to hear, that the Lisbon ships are all supposed to be safe, and that of the five Oporto ships, two have been seven or eight weeks loaded; the rest were in ballast. There was a report at Portsmouth on Wednesday, that the Brest Fleet had put to sea; but we cannot find any foundation for it.—The line of battle ships at Spithead had received orders to fall with the Oporto ships, and though it was very hard, the Eagle, Superb, Saturn, and Albion were prepared to move.

Lord Nelson was off Cadix with thirty fail of the line on the 14th inst. It is expected that his Lordship will attempt something against the remaining Fleets. We learn, from a Correspondent at Gibraltar, that the British have been sent off to fetch the troops forming the expedition under Sir James Craig down the Mediterranean. Unless they are to act against Cadix there is no accounting for this measure. General Jervis is recalled, it is said, to take an important command, and it is expected that he is expected to take place here immediately.

Admiral Sir T. Duckworth has been ordered with six fail of the line, five frigates, and brigs, in quest of the Rochefort Squadron. The position which the French army has now assumed is remarkable, and must lead immediately to great events. It will be the right wing of the enemy. It will be feared by inspecting the map, that Buonaparte is now in the rear of the Austrian army, and between them and their capital. There is no fear of his attempting to march to it while the Russian and Austrian troops are under arms; he is unable greatly to distress the convoy of provisions and necessaries, while he himself chiefly subsists on the enemy. But his great project undoubtedly is to prevent the junction of the Ruffians and Austrians, by throwing himself between them, and by attacking them as they meet. But it appears to be equally hazardous; and there seem to be many chances indeed that he will pay for his temerity.
