Following the lead of other unions, the Brentford Guardians have added to the agenda of the Middlesex County Council contributions to increased salaries, for the payment to the Guardians of the full age pensions of pensioners (mental cases) chargeable thereto, and for those law charges to be collected nationally and allocated to local authorities according to their rateable value.

A statement in our last issue to the effect that chocolates are sold during the interval at the performance of Gounod's "Redemption" at Haven Green Hall was incorrect. It is, of course, illegal to sell sweets after 8 p.m. Except on Saturday, and particular care was taken to see that nothing was sold after the commencement of the concert at 7.45 p.m.

Mr. A. J. Holloway presided at the Ealing Philanthropic Society's meeting on Tuesday evening. Ten petitions for relief were presented, and visitors were appointed. A new member was proposed; £5 was paid in donations and subscriptions. The secretary reported that the committee had considered and relieved the cases of the previous week to the amount of £8.

Two members of the Ealing Women's Citizens' Association and Heaton represented the public at the meeting of the Brentford Board of Guardians on Tuesday, when a man welcomed the "first" attendance of the ladies, and made some new standing orders, but, as a matter of fact, Ealing ladies had previously exercised their rights at present.

The European Tangle.

Mr. Arthur Dixey, F.R.G.S., will open the next session of the Ealing Literary Society at the Ealing Congregational Lecture Hall on Monday, at 8.15 p.m. His subject, whether maintains the reputation of being one of the ablest and most powerful and interesting speakers on the public platform. His subject will be "The European Tangle." An advertisement gives further particulars.

On the recommendation of the Hospital Committee, the Brentford Guardians have decided to spend not more than £15 on toys for the children and inmates on the wards at Christmas. The Guardians have also voted 1s. per head for Christmas extras for all their children and patients in institutions not under their own control. Last Christmas beer and stout were provided for the inmates on the 24th to 26th, and 1s. per head this year on that subject.

The annual exhibition of the Ealing Art School Vacation Sketch Club will take place on Friday next, when the students will be "at home" to their friends. The exhibition will be continued on Saturday, Nov. 6, from 10 to 6 free to the public. All interested in the art training of the young folks of Ealing should see the show. Specimens of school work, including lace, etching, modelling, etc., as well as drawing and painting will be on view; also some work of the hand-weaving class.

A successful fancy dress dance was held on Tuesday at the Vestry Hall, a good number being present to compete for the six valuable prizes presented by Mr. H. T. Dear. Photographs were taken by flashlight, and the limelight waltzing was very popular. The new dance, "Grafton Twinkle," as shown by the M.C., Mr. H. Pym was received with applause. The organisers of "Dear's Dances," are to be congratulated upon their splendid series held on Tuesdays and Fridays at the Vestry Hall.

The National Anthem Survives.

A trade unionist, Mr. E. Ringler was one of the speakers at the Communist and Unionist meeting held outside the Kinema on Friday in last week, and as such his attack on Socialism was particularly interesting. At the close of his address a number of Socialists plied him with questions, which he was able to answer. The audience, numbering about 1,000, was presided over by Mr. H. A. Mitchell, and at the close of the meeting an unsuccessful attempt was made to drown the singing of the National Anthem by the singing of the "Red Flag."

Mr. S. Hunt (president of the Ealing Chamber of Commerce) addressed the Ealing Grocers', Provision Dealers and Oilmen's Association on Tuesday on the subject of the emergency lighting orders, and the association agreed to support the Chamber in its endeavour to secure less drastic enforcement of the restrictions. It was reported that Messrs. John Masters and Co. had intended to go over their factory at Bow next Wednesday, and members were invited to meet at Ealing Broadway District Railway Station at 2 p.m. The Buying Committee will meet at Eden's Restaurant next Tuesday at 8 p.m.

A Pro-War Custom.

A grewar custom was revived on Saturday at St. John's Church, when the senior members of the choir gathered in the church room for a social evening and supper. The gathering was presided over by the Vicar, Rev. F. J. Sims, and was heavily supported by the Rev. W. J. G. Hudson and Mr. Clyde Fisher (choir organist). After supper, a musical programme was rendered, during an interval in which the Vicar thanked the members for their hearty support during the year. Mr. T. Ward (choir secretary) also spoke, and at the close of the evening sang the sacred solo "Abide with Me."

"The finest thing you can do is to take up work in connection with the Church of God," said the Mayor in a brief address to those assembled at the St. Paul's Church-room at a sale of work on Wednesday. The sale was opened by Mrs. Bradell, who expressed great regret at the absence of Mrs. Cooper, the Vicar's mother, who has just undergone a serious operation involving the loss of the sight of one eye. The stalls were Mrs. Cooper and Mrs. Kirk (fancy goods), Mrs. Webb (work party), Mrs. Ward and Mrs. Grand (fruit and vegetables), Mrs. Hinton and Mrs. Mowbray, Mrs. Lloyd (miscellaneous), and Mrs. King (refreshments).

Politicians Visit Garth House.

Members of the South Ealing Conservative Club visited Garth House on Wednesday, and took with them a plentiful supply of refreshments and "smokes." A very enjoyable evening was spent, the time being divided between a whist drive and a musical programme. Prizes in the whist drive were won by Pte. Knott, Cpl. Staples 2, Pte. Howatt 3, Cpl. Green 4, Pte. White 5, and Mrs. Cooper 6, the other soldier-players receiving consolation prizes. The musical programme, which was arranged by Mr. W. H. Squire, was contributed to by Miss Oram, Miss Lewis, and Messrs. de Royal, Parmiter, Wolpert, Evans, Stillman, Carter, and Barnes. Mr. W. Light presided, and the general arrangements were in the hands of Mr. A. Fowler.

The cost of the Brentford Guardians' children's camp at Rustington was £666 1s. 4d., but from that amount the cost of the officers' and children's food, chargeable in any case, was deducted, leaving the net cost only £369 12s. 5d. The cost per child for 56 days over the 14 days' maintenance allowed was 2s. 10½. 9d., or 9s. 5d. per child per week. The extra cost per child last year was 7s. 7½d. per week. The Medical Superintendent has reported to the Children Committee that of the 227 children who went to the camp 200 (92) per cent.) gained in weight. Half the cases of enlarged cervical glands disappeared. Much improved by the tonned and healthy appearance of the children, he said that the seaside holiday had been of great benefit to them both mentally and physically.

WESAC NOTES.

Forthcoming Events of the Winter Season.

Now that the official summer time has ended and the long evenings are with us, indoor amusements and recreation are again to the front. The Committee have had a carom billiard and snooker tournaments, and a friendly contest with the Brentford and four neighbours, the Brentham Institute.

The Entertainment Committee is preparing the winter season a varied programme, in which will figure chiefly the Wesac Concert Party, under the management of Mr. J. McNamara, who has also set himself to rejuvenate the Saturday evening dances. Lost Saturday the hall was well filled, and additional music provided was much appreciated.

A meeting of the bazaar workers was held on Tuesday. A small amount still being to be collected to make up the round, it was decided to hold a fancy costume carnival and social evening, when the proceeds of sale of the few odd things left over from the bazaar.

OLD IRELAND.

Fiery Speeches in the Acton Market-place about her Grievances.

Workers and sailing in their thousands to the Acton Market-place on Saturday night to hear facts about Ireland. Mr. C. Ir. Bell, of Ealing, Bellfast, came in their hundreds. Cir. Beard presided; did not mince matters. He "ordered" back to Dublin. He sent a letter to Mr. Asquith on whose behalf came his marching orders.

Cir. Carter, high on a waggon, indulged in a flow of fiery oratory in his descriptions of the methods by which Ireland had been forcibly held in subjection to Great Britain during the past 300 years. He had described the part played by the capitalist interests which had so enslaved Ireland had now joined hands with the capitalists of England to proceed to quote from the newspaper reports of the "murderous measures of tyranny" which it was proposed to submit to Parliament on the following day.

"If they want insurrection and revolt," he said, "we will show them the best ways to bring it about. You can screw an Englishman round the world if you screw a Irishman out he comes." They read that Mr. Lloyd George was sitting up in Downing-street all night, and something to turn up. (A voice: "He'll go up").

Cir. Carter proceeded to give statistics of domiciliary police visits upwards of 20,000, raids, arrests, and reprisals and finally an Irish republican paper called "Young Ireland."

Mr. Bell, however, who proposed a footling resolution covering every phase of the Irish question, from Ulster to the Irish faith, made the welkin ring with his denunciation. He said he knew what was happening now being practised in Ireland. The behaviour of the Germans in Belgium and France, the methods of the Turks in massacring, and the cruelty and gentle compared with the British system in Ireland, and those methods after the policemen were free from the hypocrisy of a Nonconformist conscience. "Now this time police have to wear armoured-cars!" he asked.

Cir. Mr. Ratcliffe seconded.

Mr. Murphy, a local trade unionist of Irish descent, made an orthodox speech. He said progress in serving up the hot stuff. "May Lloyd George die like a raving cat!" was one of his references.

UNITED SERVICES BOWING COMPETITION.

The Victoria Rifle Club was packed last night on the occasion of the United Services Open Amateur Bowing Competition, promoted by the Hanwell United Services Fund Committee. There were twenty-one rinks for the ties, and nine for the 10st 7lbs class, and some excellent contests were seen. Mr. Cuffe acted as referee, and Mr. H. Smith as M.C. and stage-manager.

The Matron of St. Faith's Home, Ealing, writing re ACACUEER's appeal in the case of a very severe Influenza Cold, with running from the eyes, and the nose, the man (gardener) was back at work again on the second day." Write for particulars to W. L. THOMPSON, 6ls, The Mall, Ealing, W.

CHILD'S FATAL CUROSITY.

Little Girl Climbs Gas Stove and Upsets Boiling Porridge.

The story of a little girl's fatal curiosity as to the cooking of the breakfast porridge was told to Mr. R. Keene (coroner) at the inquest at Ealing Town Hall yesterday, into the death of Joyce Edith Sadler, aged four years and ten months, the foster-daughter of Mrs. Broadburn, 26, Grange-park, Ealing.

Mrs. Broadburn said that the child was left for a few moments on Sunday morning while the meal was being cooked. A friend was afterwards heard, and the maid, on going into the kitchen, found the child writhing on the floor, with the boiling water and porridge all over her. She had climbed up on to the door of the gas oven and had evidently slipped and upset the porridge over herself. Witness immediately rushed out into the scalds and bandaged the child, but did not send for a doctor because she thought she could manage. On Tuesday night Mrs Broadburn sent for a doctor, but the child died just before his arrival.

Dr Davies said death was due to shock and exhaustion, following extensive scalds. The Coroner returned a verdict of "Accidental Death," finding no blame attaching to anyone.

EALING POLICE COURT.

MONDAY.—Before Messrs. Peal (in the chair), Perry and Davies.

Ignorance and Sorrow.

"I don't know anything about it, sir. I am very sorry," said Wm. Dilke (60), of Ashmore, 31, Haven-lane, Ealing, in answer to a charge of being drunk and disorderly and of using obscene language at New Broadway, Ealing, on Saturday afternoon. He was fined 10s.

TUESDAY.—Before Mr. Barlee (in the chair), Miss Sime, Dr. Balfe, Mrs. Carr-Calthrop, and Messrs. Peal, Perkin, Sayers, Sedgwick and Chilton.

Minutes that Cost Money.

Ellen Gilbert, of 73, Greenford-avenue, Hanwell, and Harriett Tribick, of Leeroy by the Sea, Hanwell, Middx., were each fined 10s. for carrying on business at Uxbridge shops after the minutes after closing hour (8 p.m.). For a similar offence, committed at 51, Broadway, Ealing, on Saturday, Miss Sarah J. Vick, was fined 10s. for aiding and abetting.

Separation Order.

Violet Thompson sought a separation order against Herbert Thompson (20), of 2, Ealing Park-gardens, Ealing.

An order was made for the payment of 27s. 6d. per week.

THURSDAY.—Before Messrs. Perry (in the chair), Bradford and King, and Mrs. Chard.

An Assault.

With his head bandaged, and with his right hand encased with a plaster patch, Robert. Pearce, of 22, Micross-road, South Ealing, appeared as prosecutor in a case in which Henry Edward Yates (30), of no address, was charged with his son, Henry Clarence Yates (17), both of 172, Ealing-road, Brentford, with assaulting the prosecutor by striking him in the face with their fists and kicking him, at Brentford, on the previous night.

The accused denied the assault, but were fined 10s. each, and ordered to pay two guinness costs.

BRENTHAM BREVITIES.

Presentation to Mr. E. J. Ephgrave.

The Brentham Bowling Club tug-of-war team have presented their trainer, Mr E. J. Ephgrave with a cigarette-holder as a mark of their appreciation.

The dance and whist drive promoted by the ladies' committee on the night of 4th to 7d—for the Ealing Hospital.

A memorial tablet to the seventeen Brentham men who fell in the great war is to be inserted in the main hall.

The golf club has instituted a series of eclectic competitions for every Saturday during the winter.

BRENTHAM PLAYERS.

First Performance of the Season.

The Brentham Players opened their sixth season on Saturday night with three short plays—"The New Poor," a comedy by Gordon Jennings; "The Monkey's Paw," by Leon M Leon and Strange Hall; and "The Will," by Sir J M Barrie.

The Players had the advantage of the honorary services of Dr. Sydney Dark (musical producer), and Mrs. Folkes' admirably filled leading roles. Incidental music was rendered by the Messrs Dunne (violin, cello, and pianoforte).

EALING AND HANWELL MEDICAL SERVICE.

TO THE EDITOR.

Sir,—The ways of Town Councillors are past finding out. No sooner does the Ealing and Hanwell Council admit it rechly deserves than those who misrepresent the poor district council by hard for some fresh means for getting rid of their money for them. Only last night the Ealing Town Clerk separately for acting (presumably without authority) on behalf of the Council in his appeal against the judgment given against him, but it is understood that the Local Officer shall divide his time between Ealing and Hanwell.

For a long time the Medical Officer was so overworked that it was arranged for him to have assistance at the Council's expense to the rates of £400 per annum, and between the Council's and ratepayers' over and per annum of ratepayers' money is to be spent on salaries alone. The Town Councillors also propose to purchase a motor car for Dr. Orr for Ealing purposes, a step which, to my mind, can be in no credit, strongly disproved of, on the grounds that it had not been asked for that it would only impose an unnecessary burden on the rates.

Many of us as ratepayers think that the proper arrangement would be to supply Dr. Orr with a motor car to Ealing and Hanwell, and to facilitate his work in Ealing, and dispense with Hanwell entirely.

I question whether our precious councillors have the faintest idea of what getting what we pay for, and it is to be hoped that after the forthcoming municipal elections they will be represented by a proportion of councillors who will take the trouble to look into the rates, and some of the antics of the officers or their paid servants. Rates, as has been said before, appear to do just as they like without any regard for the pockets of the ratepayers.—Yours, etc.,

T. J. DAVIES.

44, Crefield-road, Ealing, W.5.

(The Borough Medical Officer has a good deal of work to get through. He is Equipped with a car (at Hanwell's expense), he should be able to save in Ealing enough time to attend to Hanwell; and it is vitally important to Ealing that the public health administration should be in good hands. —Ed.).

SMART CHILDREN.

Five Call Promptly Given by South Acton Youngsters.

Seeing what appeared to be a blaze at the rear of the South Acton Fire Station (an upper-storey flat), at 7.55 p.m. on Monday, some children rang up the Acton Fire Brigade from a neighbouring alarm post.

The two motor pumps at once dashed off in charge of Second-officer Holland, but the inmates of the flat had put the fire out before the firemen arrived.

A lady, stooping with a candle to pick up something from the floor, accidentally set fire to the curtains and blind in the window of the back living-room, and some damage was also done to the paint, woodwork, paper, and a sofa, the whole loss being roughly estimated at about £10.

By curtailing some work, the Brentford Guardians hope to reduce a hospital alterations tender by £3,641.
