

Lathers and Lasts

You know the value of a thick, creamy lather—one that takes some rinsing out of the clothes. The lathering and lathering properties of have been known and appreciated for nearly a century by the above housewives of the North. They have realized that not only does this Soap lather well but that, weight for weight it outlasts every other soap.

FAIRY SOAP

You can afford to have it out of your weekly grocery.

FAIRY SOAP

is to give them appearance and a distinction which places this beautiful Soap and other ingredients of the purest quality. It is not possible for science to produce anything better.

Summary of the News

It is reported that in addition to the British Treaty the three Powers at first hand were to give a definite answer to the terms of the Treaty, and at last she had decided that the time had come to give an answer. She has not only answered already, and as Germany's neighbour it is she who is more nearly manured by German aggression than it is natural that she should feel most deeply any sign of hesitation on the part of her Allies to enforce what she considered adequate safeguards. In the fact she is reported not to be in favour of an economic blockade to force fulfilment, considering that more humane measures are possible, a sign that she is not actuated solely by motives of revenge. She is seeking safeguards for her future and naturally looks for the loyal co-operation of her Allies.

We have said before in these columns that during the enforcement of the terms of the Treaty the continuation of amicable relations with France will be subjected to the greatest danger. That danger is enhanced when the two peoples are separated by a policy of economic isolation. It will find the cooperation of the Allies in the hearts of the British people if she does not find it in their statements. We are not anxious to see the Peace Treaty in jeopardy, but we are anxious to ensure that the people of the world are made aware of the danger which is being met by her dealings with our late enemies. In this as in other things he must realize that to progress he must follow a straight-forward course to the seeking of the surest roads to disaster.

St. George for England!

By QUEENIE SCOTT-HOPPER.

We of the North (I suppose) are in many ways happy, amongst other things, in that they are not anxious to see the Peace Treaty in jeopardy, but we are anxious to ensure that the people of the world are made aware of the danger which is being met by her dealings with our late enemies.
