WEDDING AT TIMSBURY.

Mr. A. G. Leakey and Miss Gladys Woolley.

A very pretty wedding was solemnised on Sunday, at the United Methodist Church (Tabor), Timsbury, the contracting parties being Mr. Albert George Leakey, eldest son of Mr. Frederick William Leakey, of 33, Kingsmead Street, Bath, and Miss Gladys Woolley, only daughter of Mrs. F. Flower, wife of the late Mr. Frank Woolley, of Timsbury. The bride was attired in a lemon georgette dress, with wreath and veil, and carried a shower bouquet of white carnations, the gift of the bridegroom. The bride was attended by three bridesmaids, Miss Edith Woolley (cousin of the bride), who was dressed in blue crepe-de-chine with black picture hat, and Miss Emily Wookey (another cousin of the bride), and Miss Beatrice Perret (cousin of the bridegroom), who were attired in white embroidered voile with silk hats and carried baskets of sweet peas.

The bride was given away by Mr. Ben Flower, of Radstock. The best man was Mr. Alfred Leakey, of 33, Kingsmead Street, Bath. The service was conducted by the Rev. S. C. Heard, of the Radstock circuit. The Church was crowded, the bride being the organist at the Church, and the bridegroom a member of the choir. The service was fully choral, the choir singing "The voice that breathed o'er Eden" and Crown with thy benediction." Mrs. H. Smith, a friend of the bride, was at the organ, and gave selections during the assembling of the guests. Whilst the register was being signed she played Mendelssohn's "Wedding March." The reception was held at the home of the bride, when a large number of friends partook of the wedding breakfast, after which Mr. and Mrs. Leakey left by motor-car for Weston-super-Mare, where the honeymoon will be spent. They were the recipients of numerous useful presents. Amongst them were bed linen from mother; feather bed and bedroom ware from father of the bridegroom; a handsome clock from the Timsbury Male Voice Choir (of which the bridegroom is a member, the bride being their pianist); and a handsome silver tea service, from the choir, trustees and friends of the United Methodist Church (of which the bridegroom was a member and the bride was organist). The service bore the following inscription, "Presented to Miss Gladys Woolley by the trustees, choir and friends of Tabor Chapel, Timsbury, as an appreciation of her valuable services as organist, August 12th, 1923.

HOLY TRINITY, BATH.

NEW RECTOR'S FIRST SERMON.

PLEA FOR PRACTICAL CHRISTIANITY.

The Rev. C. S. Cockbill, the newly-appointed Rector of Holy Trinity, Bath, preached his first sermon after his induction on Sunday evening. Taking for his text Revelations, "I have set before thee an open door," the preacher observed that one door in the life of that church and parish had just closed, and a new chapter had begun. The theme suggested by his text seemed to him to be a most fitting topic on which to say a few words on this his first Sunday as their Rector. It was no light task to take up that work and to follow in the steps of his honoured predecessor, whose long and devoted ministry there had endeared him to every one of them. But in the history of a parish it was inevitable that one chapter of ministry should be closed and should be succeeded by another. In entering upon his work as Rector of that parish he too was passing through an open door which God had set before him. That open door was likewise set before that congregation.

Many doors were open to the Christian by God's providence. First, there was the door of faith. For many years now the Church in that parish had proclaimed the true faith. The congregations worshipping there had had presented to them the whole Faith for which the early saints had died. There they had the daily offering of the Holy Eucharist, and there Sunday by Sunday that offering was made the central service of the morning's worship, with all the enrichments which they could bring to its accompaniment. There too they had learned the value of the ministry of reconciliation with God. They believed that the whole Christian faith was taught in that parish. They yielded to none in their loyalty to the Church of England. They believed that she taught fully the one true faith in spite alike of the rivalries of Rome or of the opposition of Geneva.

The new Rector appealed for a development of the spirit of parochial consciousness. The parishioners should aim at being more than mere nominal "C. of E." Christians, but should show by their lives their belief in the fact that Jesus Christ loved them. Other doors which were open to them were those of opportunity and of guidance. "We are so apt, we people of the 20th century," observed the preacher "to make up our minds what we are going to do, and to ask God's blessing on it afterwards. Do let us remember above all things," he added, "that religion does not consist in going to church, or in singing psalms and hymns. That is a help, but it is not everything. Religion is the life you lead in the world, which goes on from Monday morning until Saturday night." In conclusion the new Rector urged his congregation solemnly not to condone sin, and exhorted them so to live that it might be said of them, "There is one thing these people of Holy Trinity have got. They see no man but Jesus only, and they serve the Lord Christ."

SACRED CONCERT AT THE PENSIONS HOSPITAL.

Visit of Bristol G.W.R. Male Voice Choir.

Bristol G.W.R. Male Voice Choir, under the conductorship of Mr. G. Sevier, paid a visit to the Bath Pensions' Hospital on Sunday evening and rendered an excellent programme on the lawn in front of the main entrance. A very large number of the patients gathered to listen. The following items were rendered by the choir: "Cwm Rhondda," "The Crusaders," "Ye Banks and Braes," "Beautiful Life," "The Comrades' Song of Hope," "In the Sweet bye-and-by," and "Lead Kindly Light." Miss Bragg sang very effectively "Rock of Ages," and "My Redeemer" and "[illegible]." Bate's selections were "Thanks" and "Lead me gently Home." Mr. W. Eales sang "Nirvana," and "Friend of Mine." Miss L. Adams was a very able accompanist.

The patients showed their appreciation by vigorous applause at the close. Colonel Bragg personally thanked the conductor (Mr. G. F. Sevier), the Choir for coming over to Bath and giving such a pleasant evening, and expressed a hope that it would not be long before they came again. The choir intimated that they would gladly come again to help clear their less fortunate brothers.

The choir closed the evening's programme by singing "Holy Night." The Tramway Company very kindly put an extra tram on to take the party from the G.W.R. to the Hospital. The local arrangements were carried out by Mr. H. Crew.

LONG SERVICE REWARDED.

43 Years in the Bath Post Office.

After 43 years' service in the Bath Post Office Mr. F. Woodman, who has retired from the post of Inspector of Boy Messengers, was on Monday presented with the King's Imperial Service Medal in the presence of the messengers and a large number of his colleagues.

Mr. Woodman joined the post office service in 1880 as an auxiliary, and in 1885 was placed on the establishment. In 1906 he was made assistant inspector of boy messengers, and during the latter portion of his service he had been carrying out the duties of inspector. He retired in April last. He has served under no fewer than eight postmasters.

The presentation was made by Mr. Perrott, the superintendent, in the absence of the postmaster (Mr. H. Chambers), who is away from Bath. Mr. Perrott, after expressing regret at the absence of the postmaster, said that Mr. Woodman took a keen interest in the boys both in the office and outside. He was a strong believer in the value of sport in moulding the character of the boys, and was keenly and actively interested in all their recreations. Although he had met Mr. Woodman on but few occasions, he had found him most willing to assist him, and though Father Time had decided that Mr. Woodman should enjoy the status of retirement, he would still be interested in the welfare of the boy messengers. He was sure there must be many men to-day who had reason to be grateful that they served under Mr. Woodman in the post office (hear, hear).

Mr. Perrott then pinned on the medal, and congratulated Mr. Woodman, wishing him, on behalf of his colleagues, many years to enjoy his well earned pension and to wear that decoration (applause).

Inspector Jones also congratulated Mr. Woodman on the honour bestowed upon him. He knew the whole staff were of the same opinion as himself, that it was thoroughly deserved. He was always willing to help anyone if he could, and took a great interest in whatever was going on in connection with the office (applause).

Messenger Mills, on behalf of the boy messengers, congratulated Mr. Woodman on having been spared so many years in the post office. Much of his time was spent in the messengers' room, where he was held in great respect. They wished him long life and happiness (applause).

Councillor Ford also spoke, recalling the time when Mr. Woodman was with the postal staff. They congratulated him upon the honour bestowed upon him and upon always upholding the dignity of the postal service (applause).

Mr. Woodman briefly replied, thanking the various speakers for their kind words and Messenger Mills and the boy messengers, whom (he said) he would always be pleased to help with their sports at any time.

BATH DRAMATIST'S SUCCESS IN LONDON.

The notices in the London press of the production this week of the East End play by Mr. Charles McEvoy, who is a vice-president of the Bath Playgoers' Society, leave no room for doubt that "The Likes of Her" and its author both received a remarkable reception at the St. Martin's Theatre on Wednesday night. Particularly appreciative notices appear in "The Times," "The Daily Telegraph," and "The Morning Post." "The Daily Mail" under the heading "Barrie and McEvoy," announces a success for the new play, while all Thursday night's evening papers are very enthusiastic. It is interesting to note that Miss Lena Ashwell was present, that a clamorous audience demanded a speech from the author and that he was mobbed by autograph hunters when the audience dispersed. There seems every reason to believe that "The Likes of Her" has made a real hit, and that it should settle down to the enjoyment of a gratifying "run" at the St. Martin's Theatre. The Lena Ashwell Players, it may be remembered, presented this play at Bath last spring.
