Lady Dashwood, the wife of Sir John Dashwood, Bt., held a successful garden party at West Wycombe Park.—The Countess of Lytton opened the Garden Fête at the Prince of Wales's General Hospital, Tottenham. She tried her luck at the houp-là, which was in the charge of Sir Albert Barratt, the governor of the hospital.—Mr. Wilbur (Junior) Coen, the youngest competitor at Wimbledon, was defeated by Mr. H. W. Austin, our young English hope. Their match was staged on No. 1 Court, and roused so much excitement that there was great crowding, and congestion of the gangways.—Miss Cynthia Critchley, eldest daughter of Major and Mrs. E. A. Critchley, of Stapleton Tower, Annan, Dumfriesshire, carried a fan in place of the conventional bouquet when she married Captain Piers S. Plowden, Royal Scots Greys, at the Oratory, Brompton.
