Wednesday Afternoon, about Four o'Clock, his Royal Highness the Duke d'Orleans arrived at his House in Portland Place, from Paris.

The Duke de Fitz-James, Grandson of the Pretender, accompanied the Duke d'Orleans from Paris here, which Journey the above two Noblemen performed in forty-two Hours.

On their Arrival they impressionate and account.

formed in forty-two Hours.

On their Arrival they immediately went to Gray's, in Bond Street, on Butimes relative to the Cardinal de Rohan, whose Part they very warmly espouse. His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales was, accidently, at Gray's when the Duke d'Orleans and Duke de Fitz-lannes came in. After the usual trains, his Royal Highness invited them to Carlton theory. tations, his Royal Highnels invited them to Carlton House to Dinner, where the three Princes dined, and enjoyed a very cheerful Evening together.

On Tuefday next there will be a Ball at the Queen's Palace; Cards of Invitation have already been fent to feveral of the Nobility for that Purpose.

The Voyage of the Lascelles to and from China, is one of the shortest that has been performed by any Veifel; the Whole was completed in thirteen Months. The Encrease of the Produce on the Servants Tax, is in the great Proportion of Five to Two.

as in the great Proportion of Five to Two.

The Amount of the Receipt Tax is also encreasing largely; and in both of them, where large Sums are pid, and the Train of Domeslicks numerous, it is plain, that the Excise Duties in the one, and the Stamps in the other, should rife in geometrical Proportion.

In three or four of the most important Matches at Newmarket, this Meeting, the Knowing-Ones were all deeply taken in — the Odds of Six to Four, nay of Four to One, being lest.

The Prince was not a Loser; Lord Derby and Lord Clermont are Winners.

Supposing King's Plates and Purses as of no other Use than as Inducements to amend the Breed of Hories, they might manifestly be disperted with—as without any publick Provocative of this Kind, there exists in the Passions and Propensities of our private Gentlemen a sufficient Security for the Custom of Horie-racing being continued.

In the Match between Drone and Anvill, there was great Generalship, or rather Jockeyship shewn by the Prince's Rider—Drone had before beat Anvill a four Mile Heat, and Anvill had triumphed over Drone in a two Mile Heat; so that, to split the Difference, the Match on Monday was a three Mile Heat, which was equally run every Foot of the Way, till coming up the Hill to the Starting Post—Drone took the Lead; but Anvill having the upper Ground, drove his Antagonist down the Hill, and gauned a Length upon him—Drone recovered this, so as to attempt to turn Anvill; but receiving a second Cheek, was never able to recover it. Very large Bets were depending.

nificent Structure fell down, and with it Part of the Body of the Church.

We are happy to find, that no Perfon has received any Hurt, nor has any Damage been done to any of the adjoining Buildings, except the Music Room, which is confiderably injured. There was a great Number of People in the Church-Yard, it being a remarkably fine Day.

This Tower, which is now a Heap of Rubbith, has been deemed by mott of the Antiquarians to be as beautiful and magnificent a Piece of Building, as any in the Kingdom. The Height of it wass 12; Feet; and it was rerected in the 12th Century, by Giles de Bruce, then Bithop of Hereford.—He is reprefented, in the North Side of the Choir, holding the Model of a Tower in his Hand.
